FRONT MATTER

| DISCLAIMER (READ THIS FIRST)

This book is educational information and general guidance only. It is not medical, psychological, legal, or financial advice and is not a substitute for professional treatment.

If you are experiencing addiction, severe depression, suicidal thoughts, withdrawal symptoms, or are at risk of harming yourself or others, seek professional help immediately. In Australia, call 000 in an emergency.

You are responsible for your decisions and actions. Use this book alongside appropriate professional support if needed.

| HOW TO USE THIS BOOK (DON'T SABOTAGE YOURSELF)

This is not a "read it once and feel inspired" book. Inspiration is cheap. Execution is rare.

For the next 28 days:

- Read the day's chapter (5–10 minutes)
- Do the task (15–45 minutes)
- Tick the box
- Stop. That's the win.

Don't double up days. Don't binge-read. This is training. Training happens daily.

If you miss a day:

- You don't quit.
- You don't restart from Day 1.
- You do the next day's task and keep moving.

One rule:

Stability first. Success later.

PART I — STABILISE (DAYS 1–3)

DAY 1: REALITY AUDIT (STOP LYING TO YOURSELF)

Let's get one thing straight: your life isn't "mysteriously broken." It's the result of inputs, habits, and decisions — repeated long enough that they became your reality.

That doesn't mean you're evil. It doesn't mean you're weak. It means your system collapsed.

And if you keep living inside fantasy — "I'll fix it when I feel better," "I just need motivation," "tomorrow I'll start" — you'll keep restarting the same hell.

Today is facts only. No self-hate. No self-pity. Both are just ego.

The Problem

Most people don't change because they don't face reality. They tell stories instead.

- "I'm just stressed."
- "It's not that bad."
- "I'll sort it out later."

Later turns into years.

The Rule

Facts. Not stories.

The Reality Audit (15–30 minutes)

Write these categories down and answer honestly:

1) Health

- How's your sleep?
- How's your eating?
- Are you moving your body?
- Are you using substances, gambling, porn, or scrolling to escape?

2) Money

- How much cash do you have right now?
- What do you owe?
- What bills are overdue?
- What are you avoiding?

3) Environment

- Is your space clean or chaotic?
- Does your space support stability or feed shame?

4) Relationships

- Who helps you?
- Who triggers you?
- Who drains you?
- Who do you need distance from?

5) Work

- Are you employed, unemployed, rebuilding?
- What's the next realistic step?

Choose 3 Non-Negotiables (7 days)

Here's where you win: you don't try to fix your whole life today. You pick three actions you will not negotiate with for the next 7 days.

Examples:

- In bed by a set time
- Walk every day
- No spending on junk
- No contact with trigger people
- Shower and clean clothes daily

Not ten. Not everything. Three.

Your brain will try to bargain. That's normal. Ignore it.

 Tick when complete:

- ☐ Reality Audit written
- ☐ Three non-negotiables chosen

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 2: STOP THE BLEEDING (MONEY, TIME, PEOPLE)

You can't rebuild while you're actively sabotaging yourself.

Today is battlefield medicine: stop the bleeding.

Where people bleed out

1. Money leaks (impulse spending, subscriptions, gambling, "just this once")
2. Time leaks (scrolling, sleeping late, drifting)
3. People leaks (toxic relationships, enabling friends, drama)

The Rule

For 24 hours: no new damage.

The 24-Hour Stabilise Rules

For the next 24 hours:

- No alcohol/drugs/gambling
- No unnecessary spending
- No doom scrolling after 9pm
- No contact with your biggest trigger person
- No big emotional decisions

This isn't "extreme." The life you've been living is extreme. This is correction.

Task: Identify Your Top 5 Leaks

Write your top 5 leaks. Then choose one action per leak:

- Cancel it
- Block it
- Remove it
- Replace it
- Add friction (make it harder)

☒ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Top 5 leaks listed
- ☐ 1 action per leak done

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 3: MINIMUM-VIABLE LIFE (BASICS YOU DON'T NEGOTIATE)

You don't need a glow-up. You need to become functional.

When people fail, the basics disappear:

- sleep becomes chaos
- food becomes random
- hygiene becomes optional
- movement disappears

Then they wonder why they feel like garbage. That's not a mystery. That's biology.

The Rule

Basics first. Always.

Task: Build Your Minimum-Viable Day

Your minimum-viable day has five parts:

1. Sleep window
2. Simple food
3. Hygiene
4. Movement
5. One productive action

Sleep window: choose a bedtime and wake time you can hit 70% of the time.

Food: choose simple repeat meals.

Hygiene: shower, brush teeth, clean clothes.

Movement: 10–20 minutes walking.

Productive action: one admin item (bill, email, application, cleanup).

Bonus (10 minutes): The "Don't live in filth" reset

Trash out. Laundry in one place. Clear one surface. Done.

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Sleep window chosen
- ☐ Simple meals planned
- ☐ Hygiene standard set
- ☐ Walk done
- ☐ One productive action done

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

PART II — RESET (DAYS 4–10)

| DAY 4: CLEAN YOUR SPACE (30-MINUTE RESET)

Your environment is either helping you or quietly choking you.

A messy space keeps your brain in emergency mode. It feeds shame. It makes relapse easier.

You don't need a perfect home. You need a non-chaotic base.

The Rule

30 minutes. No more.

Task: The 30-Minute Reset

Set a timer for 30 minutes and do only this:

1. Trash out
2. Laundry into one pile/basket
3. Clear one surface
4. Make the bed

When the timer ends, you stop. Do not turn cleaning into self-punishment.

Then every day after, do a 10-minute "maintenance reset."

 Tick when complete:

- ☐ 30-minute reset done
- ☐ 10-minute daily reset time chosen

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 5: MOVE (ENERGY COMES AFTER ACTION)

People keep waiting to feel motivated. That's backwards.

You don't get energy and then move. You move and then energy shows up.

The Rule

Action first. Mood second.

Task: 20-Minute Walk + 5-Minute Stretch

- Walk for 20 minutes (outside if possible)
- Stretch for 5 minutes

No gym fantasy. No extreme plans. Streaks beat heroics.

If your brain says "This won't change anything," ignore it. Walking changes:

- your stress response
- your sleep quality
- your cravings intensity
- your self-respect

✓ Tick when complete:

☐ Walk done☐ Stretch done

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 6: FIX SLEEP (THE CHEAT CODE)

Sleep is the foundation of discipline. Bad sleep turns you into a weaker version of yourself.

When you're tired, you chase shortcuts:

- sugar
- scrolling
- substances
- impulsive spending

The Rule

Protect sleep like your future depends on it — because it does.

Task: 3 Sleep Rules

1. Caffeine cut-off time (example: 2pm)
2. Screens off 45 minutes before bed
3. A 3-step wind-down ritual you repeat every night

Example ritual:

- shower
- set clothes for tomorrow
- write tomorrow's "Top 1 task"

✓ Tick when complete:

☐ Caffeine cut-off chosen☐ Screens-off time chosen☐ Wind-down ritual written

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 7: URGE PROTOCOL (WILLPOWER ISN'T A PLAN)

If your plan is "I'll just resist," you don't have a plan.

When an urge hits, your brain isn't logical. So you need a script you can run automatically.

The Rule

Don't fight urges. Run a protocol.

The Urge Protocol (10 minutes)

1. Name it: "This is an urge."
2. Breathe: 4 in / 6 out x 10
3. Move your body: walk, shower, pushups, outside light
4. Delay: "Not now. Reassess in 20 minutes."
5. Contact: one safe person
6. Remove access: change location, delete/block, remove stash

You're not weak for needing this. You're smart.

Task: Build Your Trigger Map

Write:

- Top 5 triggers (people/places/things)
- Top 3 high-risk times (evenings, pay day, weekends, loneliness)
- 3 safe contacts

☒ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Urge protocol written
- ☐ Trigger map completed
- ☐ Safe contacts listed

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 8: THOUGHTS AREN'T COMMANDS (YOUR BRAIN LIES WHEN STRESSED)

Your brain will talk trash when you're rebuilding. It will bring up shame, fear, and excuses like it's trying to "protect" you.

It's not protecting you. It's keeping you in the familiar.

When people restart, their mind does this:

- "You're behind."
- "You ruined everything."
- "This won't work."
- "Just one won't hurt."
- "What's the point?"

Here's what you need to learn: a thought is not a command.

It's a suggestion. Often a bad one.

The Rule

Catch it. Label it. Redirect to action.

You don't debate the thought. You don't "process" it for an hour. You don't argue with it like it's a person.

You treat it like spam.

How to use the skill (the simple way)

When a thought hits:

1. Catch it (notice it)
2. Label it (name what it is)
3. Redirect (do a stabilising action)

Example:

- Thought: "I'm a failure."
- Label: "Shame."
- Redirect: "Do today's task. Then stop."

Example:

- Thought: "I deserve a drink."
- Label: "Craving + reward-seeking."
- Redirect: "Run the urge protocol and walk 10 minutes."

Task: Build Your "Default Script"

Write one sentence you will use when you're spiralling.

Keep it blunt. Keep it short.

Examples:

- "Not today. I'm building stability."
- "My feelings don't decide my actions."
- "Do the task. Then stop."

Then write your top 5 repeated thoughts and decide your redirect action.

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Default script written
- ☐ Top 5 thoughts listed
- ☐ Redirect action chosen for each

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 9: KILL URGENCY (SLOW THE SPIRAL)

Anxiety makes everything feel urgent. Urgency makes people do dumb things:

- relapse
- spend
- text the wrong person
- quit the program
- burn bridges
- gamble on "one big move"

Here's the trap: when you feel urgency, you think action will relieve it. So you act fast.

But fast actions under stress are usually self-sabotage.

The Rule

If it feels urgent, slow down.

Urgency isn't a signal of truth. It's a signal of nervous system overload.

The "Slow the Spiral" Protocol (5 minutes)

When urgency hits:

1. Name it: "This is urgency."
2. Breathe: 4 seconds in / 6 seconds out × 10
3. Delay: "I will decide tomorrow." (24-hour rule)
4. Reduce input: no caffeine late, no doom scrolling, no conflict

5. One stabilising action: clean 10 minutes, walk, pay one bill, write one paragraph

You're not avoiding decisions. You're refusing to make decisions while unstable.

Task: The 24-Hour Rule List

Write 5 situations where you will use a 24-hour delay. Examples:

- spending over $50
- contacting an ex
- quitting your job
- drinking "to calm down"
- making big public posts
- starting a new "business idea" at midnight

☒ Tick when complete:

- ☐ 24-hour rule list written
- ☐ One stabilising action done today

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 10: WEEKLY REVIEW #1 (SCORE IT. ADJUST ONE THING.)

This is where adults separate from drifters.

You don't build a stable life by "hoping" you're improving. You measure. You adjust. You repeat.

The Rule

Review weekly. Change one thing only.

Most people wreck themselves by trying to fix everything at once. That's just another form of chaos.

Task: Score Your Week (10 minutes)

Score 1–10:

- Sleep
- Food
- Movement
- Clean environment
- Money discipline
- Urges handled
- Support (did you isolate?)

Then answer:

- What worked?
- What failed, and why?
- What's ONE change that would improve next week?

Examples of one change:

- Move bedtime 30 minutes earlier
- Add a 10-minute walk after lunch
- No phone in bed
- Delete one app that triggers relapse
- Spend freeze for 7 days
- One support check-in per day

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Scores completed
- ☐ One change chosen
- ☐ Next week's 3 non-negotiables set

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

PART III — REBUILD (DAYS 11–21)

DAY 11: MONEY TRIAGE (NUMBERS DON'T HATE YOU)

Avoiding money doesn't make you safer. It makes you weaker.

If you're restarting after failure, money anxiety is usually sitting in the background like a constant threat. That threat pushes you toward quick relief: spending, gambling, substances, avoidance.

So we deal with it the correct way: triage.

The Rule

Face the numbers. Then take the next small action.

Not "fix your whole financial life." Just stop the free-fall.

Task: Money Triage (20–40 minutes)

Step 1: List everything you owe or need to pay.

- rent/mortgage
- utilities
- phone/internet
- credit cards
- loans
- fines
- subscriptions
- overdue notices

Step 2: Categorise:

- Urgent: risk to housing, utilities, legal trouble
- Soon: needs attention but won't explode today
- Can wait: annoying, not dangerous

Step 3: Choose TWO actions:

- make one call
- set a payment plan
- pay the smallest overdue amount
- cancel 2 subscriptions
- open all letters/emails and file them

☒ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Full list written
- ☐ Categories done
- ☐ Two actions completed

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 12: SPENDING FREEZE (STOP LEAKS, REGAIN POWER)

Here's a brutal truth: many people don't fail because they don't earn enough.

They fail because they can't stop bleeding.

Impulse spending is emotional regulation. It's the same pattern as relapse: discomfort → quick relief → regret.

The Rule

For 7 days: essentials only.

Not because you're punishing yourself. Because you're rebuilding control.

Task: The 7-Day Spending Freeze

For the next 7 days:

- Spend only on essentials: housing, basic food, required transport, required meds
- No "treats"
- No "I deserve this" purchases
- No shopping apps browsing
- No gambling

If it isn't essential, it waits 7 days. That delay alone rewires your brain.

Replace the spending urge

When you want to buy something:

- drink water
- walk 10 minutes
- clean 10 minutes
- write in your proof log
- message accountability person: "Urge to spend. Delaying."

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Freeze rules written
- ☐ Removed one spending trigger (app/subscription/site)
- ☐ Replacement plan chosen

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 13: CASH-IN PLAN (FAST MONEY FIRST)

Stability needs oxygen. Oxygen is cash.

If your money situation is unstable, your mind will never fully relax. You'll keep living in survival mode and craving quick fixes.

So today you build a 7-day cash-in plan.

The Rule

Pride can't pay bills.

You're not "too good" for honest work. You're rebuilding.

Task: Pick Two Income Routes

Choose two routes you can act on immediately:

Route ideas:

- casual shifts / temp work
- gig work
- selling unused items
- a simple service (cleaning, deliveries, handyman, tutoring, admin help)
- calling old clients/leads (if business)

Then schedule actions for the next 7 days:

- how many applications?
- how many messages?
- how many items listed?
- what days and times?

Make it measurable

Pick a 7-day target amount. Even if it's small. Small is better than fantasy.

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Two routes chosen
- ☐ 7-day schedule written
- ☐ First action done today

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

| DAY 14: WORK RESTART (APPLY OR OFFER. TODAY.)

People love "planning." Planning feels productive while you avoid rejection.

Today you stop planning and you act.

The Rule

Job or business — choose one track and execute today.

No switching tracks every day. That's chaos.

Track 1: Job (Simple, Repeatable)

Do this today:

1. Update a 1-page resume (basic, clean, no fancy design)
2. Apply to 3 roles
3. Log the applications

Tomorrow you do more. Consistency beats intensity.

Track 2: Business (One Offer, One Audience, One Channel)

Your mistake before was complexity.

Today you build one offer:

"I help (who) get (result) without (pain) in (time) for ($)."

Example:

"I help busy dads lose 3kg in 14 days without the gym for $99."

Then choose:

- one audience
- one channel (Facebook group, Gumtree, Instagram, local community boards, LinkedIn)
- send 10 messages or post 1 offer today

Not perfect. Just out.

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Track chosen
- ☐ Job: 3 applications submitted OR
- ☐ Business: offer written + first outreach done

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 15: TIME BLOCKS (MOOD IS UNRELIABLE)

If you're rebuilding, you don't get to run your life on "how you feel."

Mood is a liar. Mood changes. Mood makes excuses sound reasonable.

Stable people don't rely on mood. They rely on structure.

The Rule

Calendar beats motivation.

Why you keep failing here

Because without a schedule, you drift. And drifting always returns you to the same default settings:

- late nights
- junk food
- scrolling
- relapse triggers
- avoidance
- "I'll start tomorrow"

Task: Build a Basic Daily Schedule (20 minutes)

You're not making a perfect life. You're making a stable day.

Create these time blocks:

1. Morning routine (30–60 min)
2. Work block (job search, shifts, business outreach)
3. Health block (walk + food basics)
4. Admin block (money, bills, cleaning, calls)
5. Evening low-risk routine (no triggers)

Important: If evenings are dangerous, your life is dangerous. Build protection into the evening.

Examples of evening low-risk routine:

- shower
- prep clothes for tomorrow
- light stretch
- read
- sleep wind-down ritual

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Time blocks written
- ☐ Evening low-risk routine planned
- ☐ Tomorrow's "Top 1 task" chosen

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 16: ACCOUNTABILITY (STOP DOING THIS ALONE)

People relapse and collapse in isolation. That's not a moral failure. It's physics.

If nobody sees you drifting, drifting becomes normal again.

The Rule

Accountability is friction. Friction saves you.

What accountability is (and isn't)

- It's not someone "fixing you."
- It's not you begging for motivation.
- It's a simple check-in loop that makes quitting harder.

Task: Choose ONE Accountability Loop (10 minutes)

Pick one:

- daily text check-in with a safe person ("DONE")
- a recovery/group meeting schedule
- weekly call with a friend/mentor
- public commitment tracker (private if needed)

Then write your message template.

Template:

"Day __ done. Today I did __. Tomorrow I will __."

 Tick when complete:

☐ Accountability person/group chosen

☐ Check-in schedule set

☐ First check-in sent

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 17: BOUNDARIES (PROTECT YOUR FUTURE)

Some people are not friends. They are triggers.

Some habits aren't "bad habits." They're traps with nice names.

If you don't build boundaries, other people's chaos becomes your lifestyle.

The Rule

No boundary = no future.

Common weak points

- responding instantly to everyone
- meeting in high-risk places (pubs, casinos, old hangouts)
- lending money
- late-night emotional calls
- "just catching up" with someone who wrecks you

Task: Write 3 Boundaries + 2 Scripts (15 minutes)

Write 3 boundaries you will enforce this week.

Examples:

- "I don't reply after 8pm."
- "I'm not meeting at pubs."
- "I'm not lending money."
- "I'm focusing on rebuilding. I'm unavailable for drama."

Now write two scripts. Keep them short. Don't over-explain.

Script 1 (firm):

"No. I'm rebuilding. Don't ask again."

Script 2 (polite):

"I'm not available for that. I'm focusing on stability."

 Tick when complete:

- ☐ 3 boundaries written
- ☐ 2 scripts written
- ☐ One boundary enforced today

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 18: ENVIRONMENT DESIGN (MAKE GOOD CHOICES EASY)

If your environment makes relapse easy, relapse will happen. That's not pessimism — that's reality.

Willpower is a terrible strategy. Environment is a good one.

The Rule

Remove access. Add friction. Add cues for good behaviour.

Task: Fix 5 Environment Risks (20–45 minutes)

Write your top environment risks and change them today.

Examples:

- Remove stash or anything connected to relapse
- Delete apps / block websites
- Unfollow triggers
- Move your phone charger out of your bedroom
- Put walking shoes by the door
- Put a water bottle on the bench
- Create a "clean start zone" (one clear surface)

You are redesigning your default settings.

✓ Tick when complete:

☐ 5 risks listed☐ 5 fixes implemented

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 19: PROOF LOG (CONFIDENCE = EVIDENCE)

Confidence is not something you "find." It's something you earn.

Most people wait until they feel confident before they act. That's backwards.

The Rule

Confidence comes from receipts.

Task: Start a Proof Log (10 minutes)

Write a simple proof log. One line per day. Only facts.

Examples:

- "Walked 20 minutes."
- "Didn't spend on junk."
- "Cleaned 10 minutes."
- "Applied for 3 jobs."
- "Ran urge protocol."

This becomes your evidence when your brain screams "you're not changing."

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Proof log started
- ☐ 3 proof entries written (including today)

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 20: HEALTH BASELINES (MINIMUMS, NOT MAXIMS)

You're not building a perfect fitness life. You're building a baseline that keeps you functional.

When health collapses, discipline collapses.

The Rule

Pick minimums you can hit even on bad days.

Task: Choose Your Baselines (15 minutes)

Pick realistic minimums:

- Steps (or walking minutes)
- Water
- Sleep window
- Meals (simple repeat meals)
- Optional: 10-minute strength set (pushups/squats/planks)

Make it boring. Boring is sustainable.

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Baselines chosen
- ☐ Baseline action done today (walk/water/meal)

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 21: WEEKLY REVIEW #2 (CUT THE OVERLOAD)

This is where you stop trying to be a hero and start being effective.

If something is too hard, scale it down. Don't quit. Don't spiral. Adjust.

The Rule

Remove what's not working. Keep what is. Change one thing.

Task: Weekly Review #2 (15 minutes)

Score again (1–10):

- Sleep
- Food
- Movement
- Environment
- Money
- Urges
- Support

Then answer:

- What is working that I must protect?
- What is failing and why?
- What ONE adjustment will improve next week?

Now: remove one overload.

Examples:

- reduce goals
- simplify meals
- shorten workouts
- reduce social commitments
- remove a trigger situation

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Scores done
- ☐ One adjustment chosen
- ☐ One overload removed

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

PART IV — SUSTAIN (DAYS 22–28)

DAY 22: RELAPSE PREVENTION CARD (BORING = EFFECTIVE)

If you're rebuilding after addiction, failure, or chaos, here's the truth: the storm will come again. Stress, loneliness, money pressure, conflict — something will hit.

You don't "hope" you'll handle it. You plan.

Relapse prevention isn't optimism. It's strategy.

The Rule

Assume the storm comes. Prepare the script now.

What relapse actually looks like

Most people don't fall off in one big moment. They drift:

- sleep slips
- routine disappears
- isolation grows
- shame increases
- old contacts reappear
- "just this once" thinking starts

Today you build a one-page card that catches drift early.

Task: Create Your Relapse Prevention Card (20 minutes)

Write this on one page (or your phone notes):

1) My top triggers (5)

People/places/things/time.

2) My warning signs (5)

Examples:

- staying up late
- skipping meals
- cancelling plans
- hiding spending
- obsessing over old habits
- not replying to messages
- telling myself "I deserve it"

3) My first moves (3)

These are your "automatic actions," not "I'll think about it."

Examples:

- run urge protocol
- leave the house for 20 minutes
- call/text accountability
- shower + clean clothes + reset room

4) My safe contacts (3)

People who won't feed your chaos.

5) My safe places (3)

Places you can go where relapse is harder: gym, library, parents' house, a café, a meeting.

6) What NOT to do

Examples:

- don't isolate
- don't open apps/sites
- don't "just check in" with old people
- don't drink to calm down

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Triggers written
- ☐ Warning signs written
- ☐ First moves written
- ☐ Contacts + places written
- ☐ "Do not do" list written

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 23: IDENTITY SHIFT (BECOME THE PERSON WHO...)

You don't rise to your goals. You fall to your identity.

If you keep seeing yourself as "the person who messes up," you'll act like it. Not because you're cursed — because identity drives behaviour.

So we're going to change identity the correct way: with evidence.

The Rule

Identity is proven through actions, not feelings.

Task: Write 3 Identity Statements + Prove One Today (15 minutes)

Write three statements that describe the person you're becoming. Keep them behaviour-based:

Examples:

- "I'm the kind of person who keeps promises to myself."
- "I'm the kind of person who moves daily."
- "I'm the kind of person who doesn't negotiate with cravings."
- "I'm the kind of person who tells the truth about money."

Then choose one proof action today:

- walk
- tidy 10 minutes
- pay one bill
- do one application
- run the urge protocol when needed

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ 3 identity statements written
- ☐ 1 proof action done today

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 24: REPAIR & REPUTATION (FIX WHAT YOU CAN, SAFELY)

If you've burned bridges, there's usually guilt. Guilt can either push you forward or crush you.

But here's the key: not every relationship needs "repair." Some relationships need distance. Some people are unsafe. Some situations are complicated.

So today we do this smart, not emotional.

The Rule

Repair with action. Not speeches.

Task: Choose ONE Repair Action (20 minutes)

Pick one:

- apologise (short and clean)
- repay a small amount
- show up consistently for a responsibility
- correct a lie with the truth
- make a practical amends (do something useful)

No dramatic paragraphs. No self-pity. No "I'm the worst." Keep it clean.

The Clean Apology Formula (3 lines)

1. "I'm sorry for ."
2. "It was wrong because ."
3. "From now on I will ."

That's it. No excuses. No "but you..." No bargaining.

 Tick when complete:

- ☐ One repair action chosen
- ☐ One repair action done (or scheduled with date/time)

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 25: SKILL STACK (20 MINUTES A DAY)

If you want stability long-term, you need a skill that increases your value — whether that's for a job, a business, or just life competence.

People love "big change." Big change fails. Compounding wins.

The Rule

20 minutes a day beats talent.

Task: Pick ONE Skill + Commit (15 minutes)

Pick one skill that helps stability or income:

- resume + interviewing
- basic budgeting
- sales outreach
- customer service
- a trade skill
- a software skill
- communication and boundaries
- content writing

Then commit:

- 20 minutes per day
- same time each day
- for 30 days

Make a list of the first 7 learning steps (videos, articles, short lessons).

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Skill chosen
- ☐ Daily time locked in
- ☐ First 7 steps listed

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 26: THE 90-DAY PLAN (STOP LIVING WEEK TO WEEK)

28 days stabilises you. 90 days changes your trajectory.

If you keep living week to week, you'll always feel like you're "almost" better but never solid.

The Rule

Pick 3 goals. Break them into weekly actions.

Task: Build Your 90-Day Map (30 minutes)

Pick:

1. One health goal
2. One money goal
3. One stability goal

Examples:

- Health: walk 5 days/week, consistent sleep window, lose 3–5kg safely
- Money: pay off one debt, build $1,000 buffer, consistent income plan
- Stability: weekly reviews, boundaries enforced, no relapse behaviours

Now break each goal into:

- weekly actions
- minimum version for bad days

 Tick when complete:

- ☐ 3 goals chosen
- ☐ Weekly actions written
- ☐ First week actions scheduled

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 27: BAD DAY PROTOCOL (MINIMUMS SAVE STREAKS)

Bad days don't destroy progress. Quitting does.

Most people relapse because they expect to perform like a champion every day. That's childish. Adults plan for bad days.

The Rule

On bad days, do minimums. Minimums protect momentum.

Task: Write Your Bad Day Protocol (15 minutes)

Write your minimums — the smallest actions that keep you stable:

Examples:

- shower + clean clothes
- eat one proper meal
- walk 10 minutes
- no spending on junk
- no contact with triggers
- screens off by a set time

Then write your "Do NOT do" list:

- don't isolate
- don't drink/use
- don't gamble
- don't message that person
- don't spiral online

✓ Tick when complete:

- ☐ Minimums written
- ☐ Do-not-do list written
- ☐ Minimums executed today (at least 1)

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

DAY 28: GRADUATION (YOUR PERSONAL OPERATING SYSTEM)

You're not "fixed." You're trained.

The goal isn't perfection. The goal is to stop starting over.

Today you build your personal operating system — a one-page set of rules that keeps you stable when life hits.

The Rule

Systems beat willpower. Every time.

Task: Write Your Operating System (30 minutes)

One page. Include:

1) My non-negotiables (3–5)

Sleep window, movement, money rule, hygiene, etc.

2) My weekly review schedule

Day/time you review every week.

3) My trigger plan

Triggers, warning signs, first moves, safe contacts.

4) My money rules

Spending freeze rules, essentials list, cash-in plan actions.

5) My health baselines

Minimum steps/water/sleep/food.

6) My next 7-day focus

One thing you're tightening next week.

This is how you stay out of the hole.

 Tick when complete:

- ☐ Operating system written
- ☐ Weekly review day/time scheduled
- ☐ Next 7-day focus chosen

Do the task. Then stop. That's the win.

APPENDIX

A) BOUNDARY SCRIPTS (COPY/PASTE — USE THESE EXACTLY)

Short "No"

"No. I'm rebuilding."

Polite boundary

"I'm not available for that. I'm focusing on stability."

Late-night boundary

"I don't respond after 8pm. I'll reply tomorrow."

Money boundary

"I'm not lending money."

Trigger location boundary

"I'm not meeting there. If you want to meet, it has to be somewhere else."

Repeat offender script

"I've already answered. Don't ask again."

| B) CLEAN APOLOGY SCRIPT (3 LINES)

"I'm sorry for ."

"It was wrong because ."

"From now on I will ."

| E) IF YOU SLIP (RESTART INSTRUCTIONS)

1. Stop the damage today. No "might as well."
2. Run basics: shower, food, water, sleep window.
3. Tell one safe person. Isolation turns slips into spirals.
4. Do Day 1 tomorrow. Reality audit + 3 non-negotiables.
5. Remove one trigger immediately. Add friction.
6. Keep going. A slip is data, not destiny.

The 72-Hour Reset

Stop the spiral in 3 days

A tough-love checklist to stabilise your routine, reduce urges, and regain control — fast.

PAGE 1: START HERE

You don't need 28 days to stop the bleeding. You need 72 hours.

This is not a "feel-good" guide. This is battlefield medicine for people who are restarting after chaos.

How to use this:

1. Read the day's section (5 minutes)
2. Do the tasks (20–30 minutes)
3. Tick the boxes
4. Stop. That's the win.

If you complete all 3 days, you'll have:

- A reality audit (facts, not stories)
- An urge protocol (so willpower isn't your only plan)
- A spending freeze (to stop money leaks)
- 3 non-negotiables (to protect your baseline)

Then if you want the full 28-day system, get MCJP Restart: 28 Days to Stable on Amazon.

PAGE 2: DAY 1 — STABILISE

Reality Audit (15 minutes)

Write honest answers. No self-hate. No self-pity. Facts only.

Health

- Sleep quality: ____
- Eating pattern: ____
- Movement: ____
- Substances/escapes: ____

Money

- Cash on hand: ____
- Overdue bills: ____
- What I'm avoiding: ____

Environment

- Space clean or chaotic? ____
- Does it support or sabotage? ____

Relationships

- Who helps? ____
- Who triggers? ____
- Who needs distance? ____

Choose 3 Non-Negotiables (7 days)

Pick 3 actions you will NOT negotiate with for the next 7 days.

Examples:

- In bed by a set time
- Walk every day
- No spending on junk
- No contact with trigger people
- Shower and clean clothes daily

My 3 non-negotiables:

1.

2.

3.

 Tick when done:

- ☐ Reality audit complete
- ☐ 3 non-negotiables chosen

PAGE 3: DAY 2 — RESET

Stop the Bleeding (20 minutes)

For the next 24 hours:

- No alcohol/drugs/gambling
- No unnecessary spending
- No doom scrolling after 9pm
- No contact with your biggest trigger person
- No big emotional decisions

Identify Your Top 5 Leaks

Write your top 5 leaks. Then choose one action per leak.

Leak	Action (cancel/block/remove/add friction)
1.
2.
3.
4.
5.

Build Your Urge Protocol (10 minutes)

When an urge hits, run this script:

1. Name it: "This is an urge."
2. Breathe: 4 seconds in / 6 seconds out × 10
3. Move: walk, shower, pushups, outside
4. Delay: "Not now. Reassess in 20 minutes."
5. Contact: text/call one safe person
6. Remove access: leave location, block/delete app

My safe contacts (3):

- 1.

2.

3.

✔ Tick when done:

- ☐ Top 5 leaks identified
- ☐ 1 action per leak done
- ☐ Urge protocol written
- ☐ Safe contacts listed

PAGE 4: DAY 3 — REBUILD

Spending Freeze (7 days)

For the next 7 days, spend only on essentials:

- Housing
- Basic food
- Required transport
- Required meds

No treats. No "I deserve this." No browsing.

When you want to spend, do this instead:

- Drink water
- Walk 10 minutes
- Clean 10 minutes
- Text accountability: "Urge to spend. Delaying."

Choose Your Next-Step Plan

Pick ONE action you'll do today to move forward:

Money:

- ☐ Open all overdue letters/emails
- ☐ Call one creditor
- ☐ Cancel 2 subscriptions
- ☐ Pay smallest overdue amount

Work:

- ☐ Update resume (1 page, basic)
- ☐ Apply for 3 roles
- ☐ Send 5 outreach messages
- ☐ List 5 items to sell

Health:

- ☐ Walk 20 minutes
- ☐ Set sleep window
- ☐ Prep 3 simple meals
- ☐ Clean for 30 minutes

☒ Tick when done:

☐ Spending freeze started☐ Next-step action completed
